

We are happy with current Indiana law which allows us the discretion of seeking out services which we deem necessary, without the incessant telemarketing harrassment we have experienced prior to this law's passage. Companies with whom we have done business in the past should not have unfettered access for eternity! We know who they are; we will find them if we need them!